

SOCIETY and PERSONAL ACTIVITIES of WOMEN

SOCIETY

A very novel event was the dance Wednesday evening given by the Elks club at the club house, for several of the big scenes of the motion picture to be, "Along Came Jack," were shot during the evening. Another feature was a specialty dance executed by little Miss Virginia Roberts. Red, white and blue streamers were draped from the balcony to the ceiling, while shaded lights added to the attractiveness of the ballroom. Harry Denny's orchestra played the program of dances for about 150 couples. Clark Carson, chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by G. A. Budd, W. W. Hoggins and C. A. Geisler, were in charge of the delightful affair.

Mrs. E. W. Peters, 1654 Woodward av., was hostess at a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Oliver hotel, the guests being the members of the Elks club. Spring flowers centered the attractively appointed table at which 12 guests were seated. The afternoon was spent at bridge at the home of the hostess, the favors being given to Mrs. F. M. Jackson and Mrs. R. Graham. On the afternoon of March 8 the club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. T. A. Hynes, 1194 Woodward av.

The Department of Literature, Section 1 of the Progress club, met at the club house Wednesday afternoon. Miss Anna Dobbin reviewed the work of Mark Twain's stories, "Captain Starnfield" and "The Recent Crime in Connecticut." Preceding the program a business meeting was held. The department will meet again on March 8, at which time Mrs. Norman will give the biography of Henry White. Mrs. John Webb LaZonde will review the author's "Wells and Strays."

The members of the Plymouth Needlecraft met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. Rosner, 8 Franklin st. The time was spent at needlework and during the social interval a contest was held, the favor being won by Mrs. William Hardy. The club will meet March 8 at the home of Mrs. Florence Souderman, 706 W. LaSalle av.

Mrs. M. W. Kuehl, Dixie highway, was hostess Wednesday to the members of the Roseland Home Economics club at an all day meeting. Dinner was served at noon to 35 members. The program for the afternoon consisted of a debate on "Who Was the Greatest—Lincoln or Washington?" those taking part being Mrs. K. C. Perley, Mrs. Roy Koller, Mrs. Herman Arnold and Mrs. D. Young. On March 8 Mrs. Young, Roseland, will be hostess at an afternoon meeting of the club.

Mrs. Tom Horowitz, E. Keasey st., entertained Wednesday afternoon the members of the Jolly Nine club at a George Washington party. The luncheon table was attractive with red, white and blue decorations and covers were placed for 12 guests. The afternoon was spent playing whist, the favors being won by Mrs. L. Frazin and Mrs. A. Simon. The club will meet on the afternoon of March 8 at the home of Mrs. B. Frank, 417 S. Franklin st.

The Elks club met Wednesday evening with Mrs. Walter Erler, 210 E. Indiana av. Ten members were present and the evening was spent socially. On the evening of March 8 the club will meet with Mrs. Frank Datsen, 406 E. Haney av.

Mrs. Loretta Rupe, 517 S. Rush st., entertained Wednesday evening the members of the Shamrock club. The evening was spent socially and light refreshments were served to 15 members. The club will meet again in two weeks, the place to be announced later.

Mrs. R. E. Long, 911 W. LaSalle av., was hostess Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Modern Frisclia club. The afternoon was spent socially and in a guessing contest the favor was won by Mrs. O. T. Johnson. Decorations suggested.

gestive of Washington's birthday were used to make the house attractive and a buffet luncheon was served to 11 members. The club will meet on the afternoon of March 8 at the home of Mrs. G. A. Reum, 423 Cottage Grove av.

The Clay and Harrie Home Economics club met Wednesday at an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Flora Goehner, Edwardsburg rd. A pot luck dinner was served to 13 members. The program of the afternoon was given entirely to the life of Washington, his war record and the years spent at the White House. Those appearing on the program were Mrs. E. Bacon, Mrs. Byron Christian, Miss Lois Bigelow and Mrs. Frank Schamehorn. The club will meet on March 8 for an afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Rudolph Zellers, Edwardsburg road.

The Golden Rod Drill team met with Mrs. Walter Bill, 608 E. Pennsylvania av. Wednesday afternoon. Twenty members were present and the afternoon was spent socially. In a contest the favors were won by Mrs. Arthur Hull and Mrs. Ina Croy. On the afternoon of March 8 the team will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Carpenter, McCarty st.

The members of the Pythian Tea were entertained at luncheon Wednesday afternoon at the K. of P. hall. Covers were placed for 30 guests at small tables bearing place marks of small red hatchets and novel decorations suggestive of a George Washington party. The afternoon was spent socially and in a guessing contest, the favor was won by Mrs. Gertrude Dietrich. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Rose McLaughlin, Mrs. Winona Mehner, Mrs. Dora Ingle and Mrs. Nellie Garrison. The tea will meet again on March 8 at the hall and at that time the hostesses will be Mrs. Anna Kroll, Mrs. May Lantz, Mrs. Louise Koehler and Mrs. Celeste Krause.

Honoring Miss Carolyn Walbridge, who has served as organist for 40 years, the congregation of the First Baptist church entertained with a reception Tuesday evening in the church parlors. Seventy-five guests were received by the reception committee, which included Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Huff, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norman, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shonts and Miss Minnie French. During the evening, Mrs. J. A. Rode, accompanied by Mrs. James Cover, pleased with several vocal solos, and Miss Wilda Shonts, accompanied by Mrs. L. E. Elbel, played several selections on the violin. Mrs. William Shanefelt and Mrs. Arthur Keltner poured, the table being most attractive with its basket of Ophelia roses. Miss Marcia Smith will succeed Miss Walbridge as church organist.

The Efficiency class of Stull Memorial church entertained with a Washington birthday party last evening in the church parlors. The church was attractively decorated with the National colors and refreshments were served to 70 guests. In the contests, the favors were won by Mrs. Haskell Smith, Lloyd Lamerson and Louis Karr. The next regular meeting of the class will be held in the church parlors March 3.

The Sultiss club was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Braunsdorf, 221 S. St. Louis. The favors were won by Mrs. A. Hauck and Mrs. Frank Kazel. The club will entertain their husbands Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koehler, 315 N. Frances st.

The Lithuanian Camp Fire Girls held their first anniversary party Tuesday evening at the Studebaker school. The program was opened by the regular ceremonial, which was followed by an interesting talk by Mrs. C. S. Ballock. The auditorium was attractively decorated, two prize winners were impersonated by Jane Lantz and Louis Haslanger. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. J. Albert, Mrs. Bessie Machlin, Mrs. A. C. Albert, Mrs. A. L. Meredith, Mrs. Walter Erler and Miss Margaret Harris.

Mrs. Ruth Patten, Miss Helen Dambacher and Miss Edith Delcamp entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Dambacher, 525 S. Fellows st., the guests being the members of the U. B. class and the Otterbein Guild of Conference Memorial United Brethren church. The evening was spent with music, games and refreshments were served to 40 guests.

W. E. Card, 1242 W. Sample st., was surprised Monday evening by 16 of his friends in celebration of his 64th birthday anniversary. The evening was spent socially and with music and luncheon was served.

The tribe of Ben Hur entertained with a Carnival dance Tuesday evening at Beyer hall. One hundred guests enjoyed the program of dances and plans were made for another affair of the same nature to be given in two weeks.

The Overcomers class of the Conference Memorial United Brethren church held their regular meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Harmon, Haney av. The affair was in the nature of a Washington birthday party and refreshments were served to 13 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Goodwin, 1820 Lincoln way W., entertained the officers and teachers of the Calvary Baptist Sunday school Tuesday evening. The evening was spent informally and refreshments were served to 20 guests.

Seventy-five guests attended the Silver Tea given at the Lowell Heights M. E. church Tuesday evening. A play entitled "A Missionary Clinic" was given, and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jordan; a vocal solo by Mrs. L. Leach, and a duet by Mrs. Bert Keplinger and Mrs. Joseph Rothbaler completed the attractive program. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Coy Ward, 1417 S. Rush st., was surprised by 10 of his friends Tuesday evening, the occasion being the celebration of his birthday anniversary. The evening was spent with games and contests, the favors in the later were awarded to Mrs. C. Weiss, Mrs. A. D. Gallagher, Mrs. M. Vollman and A. D. Gallagher.

Revelations of A Wife

Why had Bess Dean come to Cold Spring?

The question puzzled me, as I sauntered along the curving road with Junior clinging tightly to my hand, while Marion and the girl with whom my thoughts were occupied walked behind us. That, whatever her motive, she was bent upon making herself agreeable to every one I knew from the effort she was putting forth to entertain Marion—the child was in a gale of laughter before we had gone a few yards. And a distinct effort on my former colleague's part. I knew it to be, for she is one of those teachers—successful in the more material sense of pedagogy—who rule their pupils with martinet discipline, and stage such a performance in the line of final examinations, but who detect their charges cordially, and are the object of an equally ardent hatred upon the part of their victims—I think the word is a legitimate one. That she was "bored" almost to extinction, my phrase I used frequently to hear upon her lips—by Marion, I had no doubt, and her assiduous attention to the child made more insistent the question lurking beneath the hospitable attitude I had forced myself to adopt toward her.

Madge's Wish. That Dicky was somewhere in her scheme of things I was sure, but I admitted her of any suspected interest in him. She is of altogether too cool-blooded, too self-centered a nature to let any man away her interest or her emotions to any great extent. I finally decided that the story she had told me of reading a description of the region, and deciding to come up was true as far as it went, but I was sure that the desire to avenge her vanity—her ruling weakness—of the wound given by Dicky's refusal to let her pose for him, a refusal for which she justly held me responsible, had a great deal to do with her choice of this particular portion of the Catavacs for the last two weeks of her vacation.

And I was more than sure that she would not rest until she had accomplished the object that had brought her. There was no melodrama in Bess Dean, I need fear nothing startling as the result of her visit, but I knew that until she left the section there would be a succession of petty pin-pricks for me, with the more than possibility of some larger and humiliating episode which should involve Dicky.

Civilization and the usages of polite society are terribly in the way sometimes. If I could have followed my primitive instinct and spoken my real thoughts I would have turned upon her, curtly bade her stop pretending to like Marion, and told her that entertaining her at the Cosgrove house was an impossibility. Instead, I joined smilingly in the conversation from time to time, and when we saw Dicky lounging at the gate waiting for us, lifted my voice and called him to hurry to meet her, as if she were a long-lost sister.

"This is too much," I said to myself. Dicky is to be counted on in every social emergency. He always gauges correctly the mentality and temperament of each person he meets, and adapts his greeting accordingly. To Miss Dean he was gay, flamboyant, exaggerated, as at my call, and after a swift look at her, he straightened from his lounging position and strode swiftly toward us.

"It isn't! It isn't! It isn't! It is really you!" he said with an impressiveness calculated to make any woman unused to him believe that he had been thinking of nothing save her since he had last seen her.

Announcements

The South Bend Woman's club will present Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raymond Pierce, entertainers of unusual talent and versatility on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the club rooms. The program will include humor, drama, patriotism, literature and music. The affair will be open to all members and non-members will be admitted by payment of the usual guest fee. A very high class entertainment is to be expected and all members are urged to be present. Preceding the program, a business meeting will be held at 7:15 o'clock. The committees for the evening have been appointed. Mrs. H. R. Ventrell being chairman of the door committee and Mrs. John Moore, chairman of the decorations committee.

The Indiana-University-club will entertain at a dance next Friday evening at the club house. A feature of the evening will be a concert led by the Cornell of Chicago. Steimrich's orchestra will play the program of dances. The affair is strictly for the members of the two clubs.

The Ever Ready class of Westminster by Dicky's refusal to let her pose for him, a refusal for which she justly held me responsible, had a great deal to do with her choice of this particular portion of the Catavacs for the last two weeks of her vacation.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a wife and a mother, and am 21 years of age. I have been married a little over two years. I have suffered very much through sickness since my marriage, and my soul has suffered just as much as my body.

My husband says he loves me, but at times during my sickness he was very harsh and unkind to me—everything was too much trouble. When I needed a doctor I had to call one myself until I wasn't able, then, of course he called the doctor, but he was very unkind about it. And I believe that if my people hadn't come to my rescue I might be in my grave today.

Still, he says he loves me. But if the saying is true that "Actions speak plainer than words," then I know he doesn't love me. He has made me suffer so much that I have lost all love for him. Although he is kind to me now, yet I feel that I can never love him again.

I try to love him, but it is no use. The past is ever before me, and life with him is almost unbearable. I would go back to my home, but he says I can't have the baby, who is one year old. I can't give her up, as she is all I have to love.

I would like your advice.

AN UNHAPPY WIFE: You have suffered much, my dear, but perhaps if you had been really well the other things would not have seemed so serious to you. Perhaps your husband is young and does not entirely appreciate the responsibilities of being married.

He says he loves you, and you say that he is kinder to you now. Try to get him to keep on being kind to you, and, of course, you will be happy.

You should not leave him, my dear, on account of the baby. Try to be bright and happy, and don't brood over your past troubles. Forget them. Look to the future, and determine to make it bright and happy—you can!

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I have been keeping company with a young man for a year. He has been to the house several times to tea, and my people have grown to like him very much. Our names have been copied together both in his home town and mine, but now he tells me that we are just friends, nothing more.

What would you do in this case? Need I add that I have grown very fond of him in this year? As neither of us is very young, it makes it much harder for me, for he kept me from being lonely very often.

Kindly tell me what you would do under the circumstances.

FORGOTTEN: I know of nothing you can do, my dear. The young man was very frank when he told you just how he felt towards you. Many men would not have been as fair.

When you see him be as sweet and attractive as you can, and perhaps his friendship will grow into something deeper.

Amie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

THIN, FADED HAIR NEEDS "DANDERINE" TO THICKEN IT

35 cents buys a bottle of "Danderine." Within ten minutes after the first application you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping your hair to grow long, thick and luxuriant.

Girls! Girls! Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, thin, scraggy. A single application of delightful Danderine will double the beauty and radiance of your hair and make it look twice as abundant.
